Worship sits in four places — open and close of the morning, open and close of the afternoon — rather than a song between every teaching.

Five minutes sits between back-to-back teachings for the walk-up and introduction, no music. That gap is the whole cushion if a session runs long.

Thirty-five minutes is the ceiling on a teaching, not the target. Told to each man at the invitation, not the morning of.

Nothing runs into the evening. Out by 5:00 so the campus can reset for Sunday and no one has to feed 800 men dinner.
